ABOUT THE CLINICS

The primary care clinics in Gislaved, Vetlanda and Sävsjö are part of Region Jönköping's Bra Liv network, which includes 33 primary care centres across the region. The clinics provide accessible, continuous and high-quality healthcare for patients of all ages, including a relatively elderly and culturally diverse population.

The clinics focus on patient-centred care, continuity and collaboration. Family Medicine specialists play a central role in assessing and treating patients, managing acute and chronic conditions, and referring patients to specialist care when necessary.

Daily responsibilities include consultations at the primary care centre, care for elderly patients in nursing homes, preventive healthcare, supervision of medical students and doctors in training, and collaboration with other healthcare professionals and authorities.

The clinics offer a structured introduction to Swedish healthcare, including training at Nässjö Education Centre, practical experience at the primary care clinic and seminars in Jönköping. After approximately one year, doctors complete five months of clinical rotations within Region Jönköping to strengthen collaboration between primary and specialist care.

The working environment values teamwork, empathy, flexibility and professional development. Doctors are gradually prepared to take full responsibility at their clinic and supervise doctors in training, typically after approximately two years in Sweden.
